Chime In

Chime In is a Howard Payne tradition that was started with the founding of the university. It is a ceremony where first-year HPU students enter through Wilson Gate and Walkway onto campus, ending their trek with the singing of the Alma Mater, officially beginning their college career.

Jacket Journey

HPU hosted Jacket Journey, a five-day orientation program for new students, on Aug. 19-23. New students who participated in Jacket Journey, along with upperclassmen leaders, posed for a group photo (above).

During Jacket Journey, new students spent their first week in residence halls, learned about HPU traditions and campus life and met faculty, staff and upperclassmen leaders.

As part of Jacket Journey, HPU hosted Chime In on Aug. 19 during which the new students were officially welcomed to the university. The participants ceremoniously walked through the university's Wilson Gate before arriving at HPU's Old Main Tower to sing the Alma Mater for the first time together as a class. Upon graduating from the university, the students will in turn participate in Chime Out, the ceremonial walking out of the Wilson Gate.

A variety of games, workshops and team-building events also were held during Jacket Journey. On Aug. 22, students participated in Serving With A Right Motive (S.W.A.R.M.), a community-service event.

Jacket Journey

BSM Impact

The Baptist Student Ministry (BSM) hosted “Impact” which took place on Sept. 4-5, 2015, at Coggin Avenue Baptist Church. Here, students were able to venture out into the streets of Brownwood to pray for people, hand out cookies, and invite people to the block party that was hosted at Coggin.

S.W.A.R.M.

Many incoming freshmen, along with several returning students and staff members, spent a day in August serving the Brownwood community.

The Serving With A Right Motive (S.W.A.R.M.) project is held in conjunction with Jacket Journey.

Approximately 140 volunteers completed community service projects at a variety of locations.

9/11 Memorial

The Student Government Association facilitated the observance of 9/11. SGA hosted a flag prayer garden from 10- 11 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 11, 2015, at the lawn by the Bell Towers. Students and staff alike took a moment out of their morning to place a flag on campus and say a prayer.

Brenda Newbury Breast Cancer Walk-a-Thon

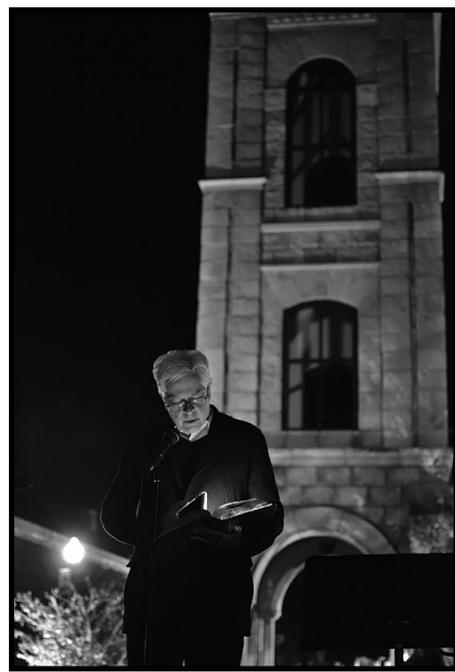

"The university is honored to partner with the Walker Cancer Center on this event each year," said Dr. Magen Bunyard, vice president for student life and dean of students. "The Center provides a community-based, patient-centered approach to the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of cancer. We pray the funds collected through the Walk-a-Thon will make a positive difference in the lives of local patients battling this disease."

Coulter came to HPU to inspire the next generation

By Ashley Moon
Yellow Jacket Editor
Fall Semester 2015

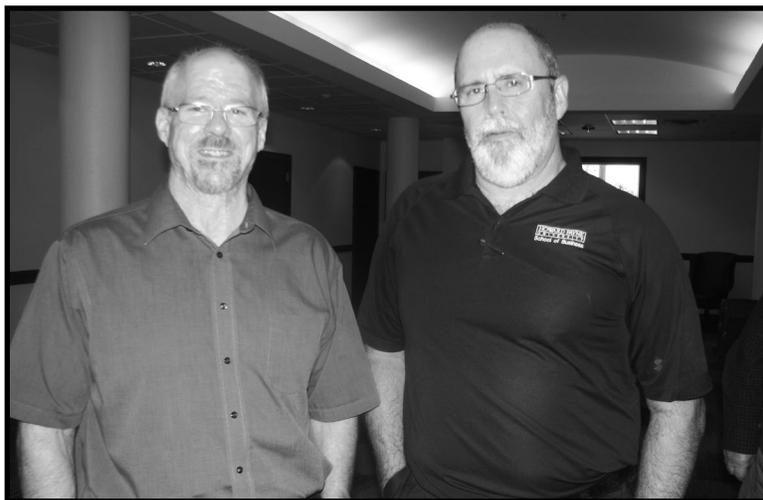

We started this semester on a solemn note, mourning the death of Dr. Brett Coulter, associate professor of mathematics and director of Howard Payne's engineering science program.

Coulter died of a heart attack on Aug. 23, 2015, the day before the fall semester started.

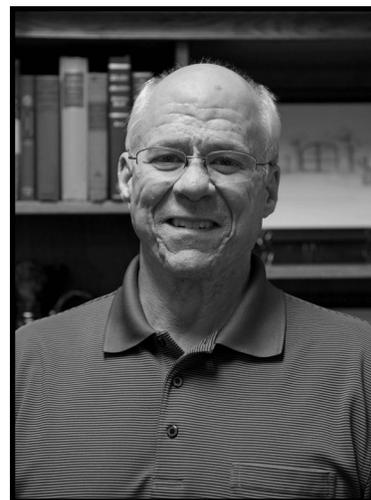

Coulter suffered a heart attack earlier in the summer but seemed to bounce back rather quickly. He was in good health and frequently exercised in the Wellness Center, so his death at age 61 came as a shock.

Coulter was an extremely smart man whose intelligence was revered at HPU. He held four degrees: a Ph.D. in theoretical and applied mechanics from the University of Illinois; a Master of Science degree in civil engineering from Texas A&M University; a Bachelor of Science degree in civil engineering from the University of Colorado at Denver; and a Bachelor of Science degree in engineering mathematics from the Colorado School of Mines.

I met Dr. Coulter during Homecoming last year while

Dr. Brett Coulter (left) visits with Mike Dillard, assistant professor of Business Administration, between HPU faculty meetings on Aug. 21, 2015.

we both worked a shift in the Dr Pepper trailer. He was easy to talk to and we immediately delved into a great conversation.

I was pleasantly surprised by how interested he was in my goals and aspirations. We talked in depth about the value of education and how students should put as much effort into learning as possible.

Coulter was a huge encouragement to me. After telling him about a specific article I wrote about valuing education, Coulter asked me to email him the article so he could read it and share it with others. I was truly touched by his interest in my writing and the praise he gave me regarding my work ethic.

In the Dr Pepper trailer, we discussed his life, too. He told me the story about how he met and fell in love with his wife, Laura, whom he married in 2008. I also learned that prior to teaching at HPU, Coulter was an Aerospace Engineer in Las Angeles.

After telling me all about his past as an Aerospace Engineer, I asked him how he ended up working at HPU. His response was simple: He wanted to impact and inspire the next generation.

And he did just that.

Chelsea Murphree, who graduated from HPU in 2011, said, "Dr. Coulter was such a blessing to me in my collegiate journey. His door was always open, and he was one of the most encouraging people I've ever met. You knew that he loved what he did and you knew that he loved Christ. I know that he will be greatly missed."

I thought it was quite noble for a man who held such a prestigious position in one of the world's largest cities to take a massive pay cut and move to a small town simply to impact and inspire young people.

I was heartbroken to hear of Coulter's unexpected passing. He truly was an inspiration to so many of us here on campus.

Coulter leaves behind a legacy of a caring heart, a gentle demeanor, unbelievable intelligence and a selfless dedication to Christ.
